How do these projects help you and your congregation?

Projects like these provide training and resources to AFLC congregations as they engage their communities with Christ. It's our joy and privilege to help churches minister effectively in our current culture and equip them with tools for sharing and living out the gospel. These tools are especially vital in today's context, as many communities are home to unchurched individuals—neighbors who may be open to spiritual conversations but are not yet connected to a church family. Through its resources for relational ministry, AED helps congregations identify effective ways to reach people outside their churches' doors by creating spiritual onramps that allow them to connect with the church.

How can I access these resources?

- Contact evangelism@aflc.org to ask about hosting Pastor Randy for a workshop, sermon, Sunday school hour, etc.—he would love to visit your congregation!

- Find printed evangelism and discipleship resources like “Preparing to Share Your Faith” or our Discipleship Manual on our website: aflc.org/evangelism.
- For access to the free pastoral RNM subscription or discounted congregational subscription, email evangelism@aflc.org.

How can I get involved?
